Dear Parish Family,

When the new doors of the Church were replaced, the one door that raised the most questions and inquires was the one bearing the image of St. Lydia. Now, this tickled me a bit, since every Easter we hear the account of her conversion in the passage from Acts of the Apostles, Chapter 16 verse 4. She is the first European to convert to Christianity, and was baptized by St. Paul. On our entrance door, she faces St. Paul whose door is next to her. Lydia was a dealer in purple goods, a very wealthy business woman, and in charge of a great household. St. Paul will leave her in charge of the new Christian Community in Philippi.

Our Holy Father Pope Francis has put a spotlight on women and the Church; it is one of the subjects of the Synod on Synodality. The Vatican News Service has been running a series of articles by Sr. Christine Schenk on women in the early Church. While St. Paul can be tough on women, especially in his letter to Timothy, we also know that more than twenty women worked with him during his three missionary journeys. Some of these women organized early Christian Communities.

Sr. Christine Schenk is a Sister of St. Joseph, a theologian and a nurse midwife. Below is a modified version of the first article in a four part series on women and the early Church. This is good material to reflect on during Lent when we are asked to know our faith at a deeper level.

The series from the Vatican News Service is taken from Sr. Christine Schenk's book "Crispina and her sisters: Women and Authority in Early Christianity" published by Fortress Press in 2017, it won first place in the Catholic Press Association's History category.

Women's prophetic leadership changed the face of the Roman Empire

Religious life, both contemplative and active, as we know it today, has evolved over two thousand years. In this first of four essays, Christine Schenk summarizes what the literary record tells us about women in ancient Christianity.

By Christine Schenk CSJ

Expansion of Christianity

The Jesus movement spread rapidly throughout the Roman Empire due in part to the initiative of female apostles, prophets, evangelists, missionaries, heads of house churches and widows. Its growth can also be attributed to the financial support from Christian businesswomen such as Mary of Magdala and Joanna (cf. Lk 8:1-3), Lydia (cf. Acts 16:11-40), Phoebe (cf. Rom 16:1-2), Olympias, a fourth-century deacon, and others. Pope Benedict XVI acknowledged as much on February 14, 2007, when he said, "without the generous contribution of many women, the history of Christianity would have developed very differently." The "female presence in the sphere of the primitive Church," he also noted, was in no way "secondary".

The House Church

Early house churches were led by women such as Grapte, a second-century leader of communities of widows who cared for orphans in Rome (Figure 1) and Tabitha, a first-century widow "devoted to good works and acts of charity” (cf. Acts 9:36-43), who founded a house church community in Joppa. Through the house church, early Christians gained access to social networks that brought them into contact with people from diverse social classes.

When a female head of household, perhaps a wealthy widow such as Tabitha, or a freed woman, such as Prisca (cf. Rom 16:3-5), converted to Christianity, Christian evangelists such as Junia (cf. Rom 16:7) or Paul gained access not only to her domestic household but also to her patronage network. This meant that her slaves, freed persons, children, relatives, and patronal clients would convert as well. Thus, when Paul converted Lydia (cf. Acts 16:11-15), he automatically gained entry to a broad swath of social relationships, and a potentially wide audience (Figure 2). In their exhaustively researched book A Woman's Place, Carolyn Osiek and Margaret Y. MacDonald demonstrate that lower class Christian women could begin businesses within their Christian social networks, and become financially secure. This brought with it higher status and freedom of movement, especially throughout the extended household of antiquity.

Women evangelizers

Celsus, a notorious critic of the early church, held a dim view of female evangelization. Yet, he unwittingly supplied outside evidence of women's initiative in early Christianity when he said Christians convinced people not “leave their father and their instructors, and go with the women and their playfellows to the women's apartments, or to the leather shop, or to the fuller's shop (Origin, Against Celsus).

Celsus' critique coincides with evidence from other early Christian texts that evangelization was conducted person-to-person, house-to-house, by women who reached out to other women, children, freed-persons, and slaves. His criticism tells us that Christian women (and a few good men) took initiative outside of patriarchal norms because of their belief in Jesus.

Specific contributions of women

There are three significant differences between 1st and 4th century Roman society that can be attributed to the evangelization and leadership ministries of Christian women. First, by the 4th century, the freedom to choose a life of celibacy effectively dismantled one pillar of patriarchy – mandatory marriage. Second, Christian widows and virgins rescued, socialized, baptized, and educated thousands of orphans who would otherwise have died of exposure or would have been doomed to prostitution. Third, the domestic networking and evangelization activities of women played a leading role in transforming Roman society from a predominantly pagan to a predominantly Christian culture.

Conclusion

Elements of religious life can be recognized not only in the early communities of widows such as Grapte and Tabitha, but also in the women who chose a life of celibacy, such as Phillip's four prophetic daughters (cf. Acts 21:9) and the female communities in Asia Minor represented in the Acts of Thecla (Figure 3). Women in these communities not only rescued orphans and poor widows, but also prophesied in the earliest Christian gatherings (cf. 1 Cor 11, Acts 21:8-10). Their countercultural exercise of authority in the context of everyday domestic life is one oft-unheralded key to Christianity's rapid expansion. The missionary authority and prophetic leadership of women within their extended social networks changed the face of the Roman Empire

Prayer for the Synod on Synodality

We stand before You, Holy Spirit, as we gather together in Your name. With You alone to guide us, make Yourself at home in our hearts: Teach us the way we must go and how we are to pursue it. We are weak and sinful; do not let us promote disorder. Do not let ignorance lead us down the wrong path nor partiality influence our actions. Let us find in You our unity so that we may journey together to eternal life and not stray from the way of truth and what is right. All this we ask of You, who are at work in every place and time, in the communion of the Father and the Son, forever and ever. Amen

2024 Annual Catholic Appeal

ONE

Love · Faith · Family

Last weekend, all the parishes in the Diocese of Trenton kicked off Pledge Sunday for the 2024 Annual Catholic Appeal. This year's theme is "One Love, One Faith, One Family." Each year our Bishop seeks the support of all the members of the diocese to further the work of our ministries. Each of us has a vital part in all we do in Christ's name and each of us can share in all we do with a gift to the Annual Catholic Appeal. With your generous contributions to the ACA, we can move forward by supporting youth and family ministries, Catholic education, religious vocations to the priesthood and diaconate, religious life, and the charitable works of our extended human family.

Every dollar pledged goes totally to the Annual Catholic Appeal and every gift, large or small, is greatly appreciated. Our parish goal this year is again $80,000. Our parish receives a rebate of dollars collected if we reach our Annual Catholic Appeal goal! We will earn 15% of payments to goal and 50% of payments collected over goal. With your support, we hope to reach our goal.

Pledges may be made using the cards in the church or by using the letter that was mailed to you. Thank you and may God bless you!

Prayer to St. Michael

Saint Michael, the Archangel, defend us in battle, be our defense against the wickedness and snares of the devil. May God rebuke him, we humbly pray; and do thou, O Prince of the heavenly host, by the power of God, thrust into Hell Satan and the other evil spirits who prowl about the world for the ruin of souls. Amen

In the Catholic Church, the anointing of the sick is a sacrament that is administered to a Catholic "who, having reached the age of reason, begins to be in danger due to sickness or old age". There is no need to wait until a person is at the point of death to receive the Sacrament. The Sacrament may be received at any time during a person's illness, especially before surgery or treatment. We suggest calling to receive the Sacrament before a person is in grave danger of death as it is not always possible to have a priest available at the actual time of death. If you would like to schedule the Sacrament of the Anointing of the Sick for a loved one, please contact the parish office.

Charles Better and Diane Humphrey

Eternal rest grant unto them, O Lord and let perpetual light shine upon them. May their souls and the souls of the faithful departed, through the mercy of God, rest in peace. Amen
